DEVELOP SUCRATE FOR SEF

DEVELOP. 15—Two households with a child, of each other have been maintained by George Stiefel of this city for the last five years. In the home of Mrs. Grace Jarrett Stiefel, his legal wife, who has been in this city since 1916, and who is a mother of two children, he has lived for the last five years. Mrs. Stiefel has frequently taken care of Mrs. Jarrett's household and on many occasions has entertained Mrs. Jarrett in her home.

It was revealed when Mrs. Jarrett came to the juvenile court for a new divorcing Stiefel that she was a mother of two children of a ruling giving the children to her to bring his name, as she was the mother of the children.

REGAL WIFE LOYAL. The court rulings place no restriction on Mrs. Jarrett, as it is asserted that she may go and come as she pleases to both homes.

She Phillips, however, has declared that Mrs. Stiefel must keep away from the children and that Stiefel must make his choice between the two women.

Tokio Cabinet Sees Danger In Proposed Commission Control of Nation

By Associated Press.
Tokio, Aug. 16.—Reports from America that the United States may suggest control of China by an international commission are understood to have been considered at a meeting of the Japanese Cabinet yesterday.

Viscount Uchida, Foreign Minister, told members of the Cabinet, according to the Yomi-Uri Shimbun, that if such a suggestion was made it was a matter of grave importance upon which Japan must carefully deliberate.

The newspaper says officials are becoming impressed with the possibility of involving Japanese diplomats at the Washington conference to present Japan's position. Some favor the appointment of M. Shidehara, present ambassador at Washington, as chief delegate.

Japan is studying the advisability of proposing an international standing council for the guidance and development of China, says the Kokuu shinbun. The work of this council would be based upon the idea of the powers' abandonment of spheres of influence and all other measures, which are inimical to China's complete sovereignty.

INSANITY AND DEATH IN "BOOTLEG"

This is the fourth of a series of special articles exposing the illegal nationwide operations of the bootlegging "ring" and allied criminal industries. It will be followed by others based on personal investigation and on official information from government sources.

By W. B. SEABROOK
Universal Service Staff Correspondent
Washington, Aug. 15.—Possibilities of insanity, blindness and death lurk in every bottle of distilled liquor brought from bootleggers today, according to the official statement of government chemists who have been engaged in analyzing seized samples.

Wood alcohol, ether, cologne, hair tonic, spirits or nitre, are among the many poisons which the government has actually discovered in its analysis of seized illicit concoctions.

This does not mean that all or even the major part of the bootleg liquor now flooding the country is mixed with these death-dealing poisons. A great deal of it is real whiskey, brandy and wine.

A great deal more of it is colored and flavored grain alcohol, which is not essentially a poison, though it works havoc with the internal organs.

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.

BEIGE wool fabric with a woven design in black is precisely the thing for the country sports model such as is sketched at the left, and Paris adds exceedingly modern touches about the sleeves and silhouette.

The skirt is a series of panels over a pleated underskirt of plain beige, the front panels being slit up nearly to the top of the bodice.

If it were not for a long tassel on each shoulder and a somewhat lighter

one at the waist, the beige crepe de chine skirt at the right would be an extremely demure affair. And perhaps even the tassel would not give it so dashing an air were it not of peony red, matching the crepe de chine skirt. However, the dash is there, and very attractively so.

coctions (which are not potent in the crude alcohol.

It is usually comparatively new and raw. Sometimes, instead of being illicitly secured commercial alcohol, it is moonshine, which is just as bad or worse. It is poisonous, strictly speaking, when consumed in large quantities; but if drunk regularly even in smaller quantities it works havoc with the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Kronin, inflammation of the mucus membrane, paralysis of the stomach, are some of the specific things

it does.

ADULTERATION OF WINES.

Another trick of the bootlegger,

which the government has disseminated, is the adulteration of wines.

They acquire quantities of low grade

wines, ostensibly for medicinal manufacture, and add

10 to 15 per cent of the cheap

grade of commercial alcohol, to give them a better taste. They then filter it and sell it to the public

WIFE SAYS RUM 36 YEARS HEAD OF MORGUE, BUT BY TOMBS

Asked for Money, Got Bottle of Scotch Instead, Charges

Comedian's Spouse

No Terrors

"Death has no terrors for me," said

Louis A. Pasco today, as he talked of the thirty-six years as head of the morgue at City Hospital.

"I suppose," he went on, "that like everything else, familiarity

tends to contempt—or at least a feeling of indifference.

"If a man has enjoyed his life and has a reasonably clear conscience

the thought of death need not worry

him. There is nothing hideous about death—nothing to be really afraid of.

"I keep cheerful," he smiled in response to a question. "I have to, if man didn't keep cheerful in this job he could stay in a month."

Thirty-six years ago today Pasco,

who had been working in an undertaker's office, was asked to fill in a temporary vacancy in the morgue.

The job was to have lasted two weeks. At the end of that time, however, the appointment was made permanent and he has been there ever since, except on two occasions when he was a patient at the hospital.

But Pasco refuses to get mortuary over the death that stalks daily

through the department under his charge.

"Twice I have been a patient in the hospital, and each time I was placed on the danger list. But that did not prevent me from going right back to my work as soon as I was able. That's all in the day's work."

Some of the tragedies that have passed before his accustomed eyes stand out vividly in his memory. One was the Hotel Arcadia fire several years ago when twenty-four men were burned to death in a cheap lodging house on Washington street.

"Thousands of people," he said,

"have passed through the morgue in the days that followed the fire, seeking to identify the dead or drawn there by curiosity. The first of the victims usually were buried—undoubtedly

by the city."

During the influenza epidemic a few years ago more than twenty hundred a day were received at the morgue for weeks. Pathetic scenes crowded thick and fast in those days

as friends and relatives passed through the corridors to claim their dead.

Ascalon

Illustrated by Charles Dana Gibson

Who's Who in "The Streets of Ascalon"

STRELSA LEEDS—A charming young widow, who comes to New York and is sponsored by one of the leaders of society.
RICHARD QUARRAN—A gifted young idler, who falls in love with Strelsa.
MOLLY WYCHERLY—A multi-millionaire, who has determined to marry Strelsa, and who has explained his unsavory past to her by a seemingly frank talk.
SIR CHARLES MELLISON—A rich Englishman, who has long hoped to win Strelsa's hand.
MARY LEDWITH—Who, betrayed by Sprowl, at last sees the good in Chester Ledwith, the husband she loathed.

THE EARL OF DANKMERE—Who brings over a lot of family pictures and incidentally starts Quarren on the road to usefulness.

MRS. SPROWL—A Fifth Avenue dowager, who undertakes a matrimonial campaign for Strelsa, hoping to marry her to Sir Charles Mellison.

As for the good in Chester Ledwith, the husband she loathed.

THE EARL OF DANKMERE—Who brings over a lot of family pictures and incidentally starts Quarren on the road to usefulness.

MRS. SPROWL—A Fifth Avenue dowager, who undertakes a matrimonial campaign for Strelsa, hoping to marry her to Sir Charles Mellison.

As for the good in Chester Ledwith, the husband she loathed.

The Great Dragon of the North.

EARLY in the evening, when bright Vega is on the meridian, a remarkable lighthouse-shaped figure will be seen among the stars north-west by north. This represents the head of the constellation Draco, the antique dragon of the North.

Charles Dana Gibson

The Story of a Beautiful Girl and the Man for Whom She Made a Great Sacrifice

"To forget her, I suppose," she said pleasantly. "It is not with me to forget her. One prefers to think often of such a woman as Mrs. Leeds. There is something about her that is so different from the women of the day."

"Mrs. Leeds was a woman of the old school," he said. "She was a woman of the old school, and she was a woman of the old school. She was a woman of the old school, and she was a woman of the old school."

"She was a woman of the old school," he said. "She was a woman of the old school, and she was a woman of the old school. She was a woman of the old school, and she was a woman of the old school."

"She was a woman of the old school," he said. "She was a woman of the old school, and she was a woman of the old school. She was a woman of the old school, and she was a woman of the old school."
